Dedication

This book is dedicated to my mother. Although she is no longer physically with me, she still looks over my shoulder at every stitch I take and insists on the removal of any work that doesn't meet with her approval. Mother was a loving but exacting taskmaster and didn't waste any praise where it wasn't earned. A job well done was its own reward—a philosophy to which I subscribe.

Located in Paducah, Kentucky, the American Quilter's Society (AQS) is dedicated to promoting the accomplishments of today's quilters. Through its publications and events, AQS strives to honor today's quiltmakers and their work and to inspire future creativity and innovation in quilting.
